

INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE FOR LEARNING

35TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

New Frontiers in Learning and Innovation

January 14–17, 2010

Omni Houston Westside

Houston, TX

In times like these, it is important to have a method and process for learning and development that gets results in the most effective and efficient way possible. Accelerated Learning can make your training investment count. Learners not only know more, they are able to apply learning back on the job. Learning is engaging, gets results and keeps on going long after the learning program ends.

- New AL and eLearning track will help you incorporate accelerated learning into webinars, eLearning and to use social networking sites to promote learning.
- Extend your use of AL beyond instruction. The Edison track on Innovation and Change will show you how to use AL for large group facilitation, change management. You will also see how the right learning space makes a difference in the learning outcomes!
- Experience new accelerated learning products and services during new “night flights.”
- Build an active AL Community of Practice with other conference participants.

The IAL conference provides tracks for all levels of AL practitioners—from novices to experts:

- Accelerated Learning and eLearning
- Edison track: Innovation and Change
- Games and Simulations
- Best Practices demonstrated in the poster presentations and AL market
- The Inner Teacher (dedicated to your personal development as an AL trainer)
- Music, Movement, Improv, and the Arts
- Research (the latest in brain research and innovative learning practice).

Extend your experience with a pre-conference workshop:

- Accelerated Learning in Online Learning
- Brain-Friendly Teaching Made Brain Friendly
- That’s Learnertainment®: AL Presentation Techniques

We practice what we preach! Sessions at the IAL conference are highly participatory and interactive, and most follow the principles of Accelerated Learning to maximize your learning experience.
